BUTLER BROTHE

Fall Announcement

A new feature of our stock this season will be a complete line of

BOYS' CLOTHING

Every possible advantage to purchasers ha been combined in our efforts to make ou Juvenile business a signal success. A great portion of our stock are the superior produc-tions of the Ederheimer-Stein work rooms.

BOYS' SUITS

Boy's Suits in double breasted jacket and knee pants and double breasted Norfolks with bloomer pants. Durably made and lined; carefully tailored,

$3.00 to $7.50

CHILDREN'S SUITS

Children's Suits in Russian Sailor Blouse with large sailor collars, bloomer pants, made in accordance with highest standard for boy's clothing.

$2.50 up to $6.50

Boys' School Shoes

A Webster Dictionary given FREE with every pair.

XTRAGOOD, what it means. This label on clothing is like the painter's signature on a masterpiece of art. It vouches for the genuineness of the quality-the perfection of the work. aterman Fountain

Our men's clothing department is still up to the standard in every particular-nothing but the best and in the latest styles.

By VIRGINIA LEILA WENTZ

Copyright, 1906, by Homer Sprague

"And he has the smartest looking trap you ever saw, Madge! It's champagne colored and a perfect love. What do you bet I don't land him, trap and all, before the summer's flown by?"

Miss Irene Warden, a beauty (and aware of it), was writing to her girl chum concerning the bachelor who had just taken the big colonial house with the carriage road and iron archway which for several seasons now had abandoned hope of usefulness.

She was writing by an open window where the scent of the roses came up from the front garden. Beyond lay the pretty tree lined road over which the bachelor and his champagne colored trap had just flown by.

"Although I've told you his name is Horace Matlock." ran on Miss Warden's pen, "I haven't told you what he looks like. He's an old man, forty or fifty, I should sag. His nose is rather too big, although people call him handsome, and he's a bit baid, but, then, I suppose most men who live in big houses and drive smart traps have big noses. What?" Miss Warden smiled a little soft smile into the glass above her dressing table and then bent over her portfolio again:

"Of course I'd prefer dear old Tom. He's young and stunning and sings college songs so beautifully, but, as you know, he hasn't a red! And I really must do something this summer. Madge. My already meager allowance will be cut considerably in the autumn, for in September pa's going to enter the matrimonial game himself-a horrid, designing widow too! So I must 'step lively,' in the parlance of street car officials.

"In point of fact, though," pursued the voluble pen, "It'll be pretty easy. plain sailing. I haven't a single good looking rival up in this out of the way place except old Professor Thornton's daughter, and she's the quietest poke of a girl-a regular stay at home. And as for dressing-well. Madge, you and I spend as much on our gloves and vells, I reckon, as she does on her whole outfit. That's what comes from baving a bookworm for a father."

The next week in the little village postoffice a friend presented Mr. Horace Matlock to Miss Irene Warden. Apparently the meeting was by accident, but Miss Warden felt her smooth cheeks flush, and her habitual composure was rippled for a second, while, for his part, Mr. Matlock scarcely looked at her and, having passed a conventional "glad to meet you," lifted his hat politely and walked out to his smart little trap.

"I had on my chic voile, the one Aunt Tessie sent me from Paris, you know," wrote Miss Warden to Madge. "and my big white hat with flopping fuchsias. But it was all rank waste."

She couldn't understand it. Her dreams hadn't ended that way at all. One day in the tiny idle little bank Mr. Horace Matlock stopped short as he recognized a stooped, gaunt figure with a patrician face.

"Why, it's Professor Thornton, isn't it?" he cried, stepping up to him with a cordially outstretched hand.

When Matlock years ago had entered Yale as a freshman Thornton had been tutoring, and quite a friendship had sprung up between them. Subsequently they had lost track of each other. But the satisfaction of the younger man in meeting the older one again was genuine.

"Poor old professor! How thin and worn and aged he's become!" thought Matlock as he drove the professor home to his modest little cottage.

Out in the cottage's side yard by the hollyhocks a girl was picking a great bunch of sweet peas for the lunch table. When she heard the smart little trap stop at the gate she looked quickly up from the blossoming vines and wondered. Who was the distinguished looking stranger? And where had he picked up dear daddy?

A few days later Matlock drove up to the cottage again. It was only decent, he told himself, that he should show the professor some attention and take and there was an air of intimate homehim driving now and then. Perhaps some day also he would take the professor's daughter. He liked her. He thing for so long that it sent a kind of liked the natural, unabashed way in thrill shivering through him. After all, which she had acknowledged her fa- to have a cozy tea table and a silm ther's presentation of him, with her white hand to inclose in yours-Cynsleeves rolled up and her arms full of thia's hands were slim and white sweet peas; he liked the width between enough as they moved among the china her eyes, the breadth of her brow, the in the half light. He pulled a chair lines of her mouth. She was less pret- close for the professor, and then sat ty than many young girls, but there down himself. was about her a freshness, a sweet- Before Mr. Horace Matlock went to ing aimlessly and tirelessly. Matlock dropped in upon the professor to make him a little call. He had fetched him his afternoon mail as pretext. While they were sitting out on the porch from the shadowy little parlor came the first chords of Beethoven's beautiful "Moonlight Sonata."

"That's Cynthia," said Professor Thornton in answer to his guest's start of surprise. "She's never too tired, no matter how hard or long the day has been, to play that sonata for me in the evening. I love it above all other written music, and she never forgets."

Then while the tree toads droned their harmonies he told Matlock a little about his daughter-how four years ago he had suffered a paralytic stroke and she had been obliged to leave school in her graduating year and nurse him night and day with untiring sweetness; how, when their slender income was exhausted a year back, she had begun to make use of her musical skill and give lessons on the piano. And when the professor told of Cynthia's triweekly trips to Adams, the nearest town, his silvered head went down on his coat sleeve, and in the gloaming behind the honeysuckles the two men were silent.

Presently they smoked their usual ci gars and indulged in their usual con versation - newspaper topics chopped fine by individual opinion, a good dea of politics, a little of art and science Last of all, Cynthia came out.

"Delighted!" she said, going wettill up to Matlock with outstre che. Mands While you two have been gossiping I've been remembering your weakness for tea and have drawn you a cup. Will you come in, or shall we have it

They went in. Near the little fern screened fireplace was a tea table. dainty in its array of polished silver and thin china. The hanging lamp shed the rich, soft glow of olive oil. likeness about everything. Matlock had been a stranger to that sort of ness, that pleased him, and he had no- bed that night he remembered that on ticed that her figure in her simple lit- the morrow Cynthia Thornton was to tle gown was well molded and slim. drive with him in his champague co!

romanly little treasure of girl brightness she was, anyhow!

Cynthia only returned from Adam the next day a half hour before her tired. She was not one to make conversation, and the quiet and beauty of the scenes stretched out before her made her very silent. Matlock, as he handled the reins, watched both her and the landscape. There was a certain peace about them both. And peace was, above all things, what he

The next day Miss Warden wrote to her girl chum again:

"In the beginning of the summer. Madge, dear, I wrote you that a certain matrimonial venture would be easy, plain sailing.' Alas! I'm afraid I shail never find port-not, at least. with my bachelor up on the hill. And in the name of wonders, who of all people do you suppose has taken the wind out of my sails? Cynthia Thornton, the old bookworm's daughter! He had her out driving in that little beauty of a trap three times during the last week to my knowledge! I'm afraid Cupid isn't very kind to me. You'll find I'll die an old maid after all. unless Tom"-

At this point Miss Warden's pretty teeth absently caught the top of her penholder, while she looked dreamily toward the sunny, tree lined street. Then she began to hum.

As she started on the fourth bar of her song a champagne colored trap skimmed by. In it was the charming bachelor, and by his side was Cynthia

His Last Love.

She-I suppose you would have me believe I am the first woman you ever loved? He-Not at all. I've loved scores of women, but you are the last one I have fallen in love with. She-Very well, then, I'll say "Yes." As long as I am the last one you have loved we'll get along all right.-Boston Transcript.

Dispelled His Fears.

Old Gentleman-It is folly to talk of marriage for years yet. My daughter is a mere child. She knows nothing about the world and could not manage servants. Mr. Slimpurse - Oh, that needn't make the slightest difference! We shan't have any

Our Best.

We need not be discouraged because of the great things others accomplish and which are far beyond the range of possibility for us. It is only our own best that is required of us, our own and not another's .- Woman's Life.

The earliest known cookbook was crinted in Venice in 1475

"TO CURE A FELLON."

says Sam Kendall, of Phillipsburg, Kan., "just cover it over with Bucklen's Arnica Salve and the Salve will do the rest." Quickest cure for Burns, Boils, Sores, Scalds, Wounds. Piles, Eczema, Salt Rheum , Chapped Hands, Sore Feet and Sore Eyes Only 25c at Barclay & Groover's drug store. Guaranteed.

NOTICE OF ELECTION.

WHEREAS, The Legislature of 1905, under the Constitution of 1885, of the State of Florida, did pass five Joint Resolutions proposing Amendments to the Constitution of the State of Florida, and the same were agreed to by a vote of three-fifths of all the members elected to each House: that the vote on said Joint Resolutions were entered upon thier respective Journals, with yeas and nays thereon, and they did determine and direct that said Joint resolutions be submitted to the electors of the State at the General Election in November, 1906. Now, THEREFORE, I, H. CLAY CRAWFORD, Secretory of State of the State of Florida, do hereby give notice that a

GENERAL ELECTION will be held in each county in Florida on Tuesday next succeeding the first Monday in November, A. D., 1906, the said Tuesday being the

SIXTH DAY OF NOVEMBER. for the ratification or rejection of the said Joint

Resolutions proposing Amendments to the Consti-tution of the State of Florida, viz:

ARTICLE XXVIII

That the following amendment to Article XVI of the Constitution of the State of Florida be and it is hereby agreed to and shall be submitted to the electors of the State at the general election, to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, A. D., 1906, for ratification or rejec-

Section 32. The Governor, the Comptroller, the Treasurer, the Attorney General and the Commissioner of Agriculture of the State of Florida, and their successors in office, are hereby constituted and designated as a board of drainage commissioners, and are hereby authorized and empowered to establish a system of canals, drains, levees, dikes and reservoirs of such dimension and depths, as in and reservoirs of said board of drainage commissioners is deemed advisable, to drain and reclaim the swamp and overflowed lands within the State of Florida, or such parts or portions thereof as is deemed best by said board of drainage commis-sioners from time to time, and to provide for the irrigation of the lands reclaimed, and to maintain such canals, drains, levees, dikes, and reservoirs in such manner as will be most advantageous to territory so drained, the State of Florida, its inhabitants and the commerce thereof Section 33. That the board of drainage commissioners are hereby authorized and empowered to establish drainage districts and fix the boundaries thereof in the State of Florida. That the board of drainage commissioners be and it is au-thorized and empowered to prepare a list or lists of all the alluvial or swamp and overflewed tax-able lands within such drainage district or districts, and levy thereon an acreage tax not exceeding ten cents per acre per annumn to be fixed annually by said board of drainage commissioners, and the various tax assessors of the various coun-ties embraced in part or in whole within such drainage district or districts shall receive such list or lists and enter the same upon the tax rolls of the county or counties in which such lands may lie and the amount so levied by the beard of drainage commissioners in such manner and form as may be prescribed by the board of drainage commissiouers from time to time, which amounts shall tle gown was well molded and slim. drive with him in his champague co!

One evening toward twilight, when ored trap. How it would harmonize other taxes are collected in accordance with law.

The open lawn bats were whiri with her soft hair before the ambitious of drainage commissioners, said commissioners. be collected by the various tax collectors of the

the State for approval

Appreved May 31st

tion 39 of said Articl by agreed to and shall h not capital, which shall ar county, the same orig cases and matters as the circuit our a judge of said county, and the same po writs of mandamus, injunction ou certiorari, prohibition, habeas corpus at proper and necessary to the completes their jurisdiction as the circuit cont judge of said county, except the pour thority to summons and empanel agree Section 42. There shall be six ten court in each year. Section 43. There shall be for si prosecuting attorney who shall be spetthe Governor and confirmed by the sw who shall hold his office for four years pensation shall be fixed by law.

Section 44. All offenses triable a shall be presecuted upon information as to be filed by the prosecuting attent grand jury of the circuit court for an may indict for any offense triable is of record. Upon the finding of such is the circuit judge shall commit or but is: for trial in the court of record, which be upon information.

Section 45. The clerk of said cont. shall hold office for four years, and he tion shall be fixed by law. The sherf d bia county shall be the executive duscourt, and his duties and fees shall be section 46. The same rules of me

Section 46. The same rules of pro practice which obtain in the circuit of county shall obtain in the court of no laws relative to criminal courts of rec as otherwise provided herein, shall and control the court of record. Change may be had from the court of records cuit court of another county for the and under the laws providing for the venue from the circuit court of one of circuit court of another county. The may in his discretion, order the circul Escambia county or of any other one or more terms or parts of ter of record. Any civil cause in the ca qualification of the judge of the con may be tried by a judge ad litem, or ferred to the circuit court of Escani of any other county, in the same was ceedings in the circuit court of Escal Section 47. The Supreme Court of shall have appellate jurisdiction in all of and in equity originating in the coand in cases of conviction of felony of record. The circuit court of its shall have final appellate jurisdiction demeanors tried in the court of repeals or writs of error pro of record, whether to the Supreme cuit Court, shall be prosecuted in th and according to the same rules as proceedings from the Circuit Court preme Court.

Approved June 6, 1905. ARTICLE XXXII

That the following amendment to A of the Constitution of the State of Flat the same is hereby agreed to and and mitted to the electors of the State eral election in 1906 for ratification or Section 1. Either branch of the Le a regular session thereof, may pon ments to this Constitution; and if agreed to by three-fifths of all the me ed to each house, such proposed an be entered upon their the yeas and nays and shall be pu newspaper in each county where a published, for one month immediate the next general election of I which election the same shall be electors of the State, for approval a majority of the electors voting ments at such election shall a ments the same shall become a part tution. The proposed amend submitted as to enable the electors b amendment separately. at the election at which this is s tofore adopted by the electors are a part of the Constitution from the Approved June 6; 1906. The votes cast in compliance amendments, and the canvass of returns thereof, shall be subjected General Elections in the State of Fig. ulations and restrictions as are pri IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have been hand and affixed the Crest hand and affixed the Crest State of Florida, at Talks Capital, this first day of Ass adoption of the same.

To J. H. RICKERSON, Sheriff,